LB 1211

$82 million versus our $66 million, he's going to have to add another, minimum, of $50 million. Probably 40 to 50 million dollars in additional cuts. And, so $5 million out of $50 million would be helpful if we don't do $5 million in the next year, starting in the next budget year, which I should say, that...that will be in the out-year, so to speak. It's not on this year. But I think we have to start thinking about those, because I, at this point, can't get a sense of where we're going. I know several of you have indicated, in the paper over the weekend, you were going to do some more cuts. And turn around and vote this in, I don't...I think is going to be fairly inconsistent. So I, at this point, will...the Bromm amendment is fine. I believe it...I want to get the bill in the shape it should be. But I will not be voting for it at the...

SENATOR COORDSEN: One minute.

SENATOR TYSON: ...at the end. Thank you.

SENATOR COORDSEN: Senator Beutler, you're next.

SENATOR BEUTLER: Senator Bromm, if I could have an exchange with you? The amendment that you're presenting right now really goes, from my perspective at least, to one of the major problems with this bill. And that is, that as I understand the way this is structured, the state is going to be expected to invest a considerable amount of money, how much we don't know, but the state will have no control. It will have input in one regard, but essentially, it will not control either construction or operations. That's my understanding. Now I want to go back through that with you, and be sure that we're all on the same level here, in terms of what's happening. Backing up one more step, just to remind each other of how this is structured. And please, I invite you to step in and correct me if I'm not getting something exactly right. But we basically have two entities being set up by...under the Interlocal Governmental Act. One of those entities, they're choosing to call the acquisition authority/acquisition agency is what they're calling it. And, the second entity, which is separate and apart from the acquisition agency, as I understand it, is, what they're calling, the alliance. As I understand the basic distinction,
